- Based on credentials he has a right to speak to membership at any time
- Mr. Williams met with board one year ago
- Plaudits to President for gracious manner, ability to deal well with people
- Almost 100% of members feel better about organization compared to one year ago; also pleasantly surprised about the excellent & successful Walkathon; very impressed by organization and enthusiasm of committee

- Was also impressed at cohesiveness, energy and vigour of the committee and people involved but composition of committee was 20 women and 5 men
- He saluted women of JCA

Mr. Williams' Recommendations

- Members need to be more assertive in raising concerns and addressing issues
- Lack an effective communication strategy – little communication done between meetings, In Focus is no longer published; an information vacuum exists, many blank pages on website
- Members are holding the Board's feet to fire to allow them to make good decisions
- An appropriate organizational structure that focuses on community and not the social services organization
- In Focus publication needs to continue
- Use of web-site, updated weekly, minutes posted, use of regular communication
- Every JCA activity planned should be documented for future reference so that same mistakes are not made i.e. Mother's Day brunch
- Every T crossed, every I dotted

The President thanked Mr. Williams for his feedback & recommendations.

7. CEO Report

CEO moved a motion to accept his report; moved by F. Conville, seconded by H. Stewart.

Discussion

H. Stewart expressed his pleasure with stability in staffing and the CEO's report but stressed that ethno-cultural and social services delivery are two different things. He noted the erosion of ethno-cultural aspect and the expansion of social services programs.

- The President responded that United Way Toronto pays a large portion of salary for social services delivery; we as an organization need to discuss how to fund the CEO's salary.
- In response to a question about the absence of a summer camp, the CEO noted that in 2009 there were issues and the program was not well managed so we are going back to drawing board to fix issues but it will be put back in 2011. A student has been hired for summer to assist in other areas.
- In response to a question about whether any staff was present at the AGM, the CEO indicated that five staff are present.
